

Reproduction WW2 Camouflage "Amoeba" pattern oversized parka.

Recently made in Russia, these are superior to previous reproductions with excellent color and accurate details.

This outstanding reproduction is the same as has been commissioned by Russian movie companies for making big-budget WW2 films. Offered for the first time in USA, it is heads and shoulders above the Chinese-made replicas sold elsewhere.

The parka is cut very large large to fit over the summer uniform. Hood includes drawstrings and an attached, small gauze face mask as per originals. There are many slits sewn into the fabric to enable the soldier inside to have complete access to all of his equipment, whether he was carrying it inside or outside of his parka.

During WW2, camouflage was issued to a variety of troops including engineers, snipers and paratroopers.

Belt, helmet, weapon and tunic in our photos are not included but may be available elsewhere on our website.

The only compromise made by our manufacturer in making these was that he chose to use a slightly heavier gauge cotton fabric. As a result, these are much more durable than the flimsy wartime originals - which were actually considered disposable!
