

Lenin photo poster, 1985.

22 3/16" x 34 3/16". Quote reads "To be members of the Youth Union means to conduct business in such a way as to give all your work, all your strength to the common cause. That's the meaning of the Communist education." Printed on good quality glossy poster paper.

Excellent condition.

This pose is from the same set of photos of Lenin that were the basis for ubiquitous "Lenin in a vested suit with blue tie" oil portraits seen throughout the USSR. This photo was probably chosen for reproduction in the 1980s because it is one of the few photographs that do not make him look like he's about to say something sarcastic or about to order someone's imprisonment or execution.
