

Flag of the Chief of Staff the Soviet Navy, dated 1989.

In synthetic silk, the kind used for naval reviews and other ceremonial occasions. Medium size, measures approx. 3 ¼' x 2'. The flag is the same as regular naval ensign but with a large gold wreath around the star and with red anchor behind it. The canvas hoist sleeve shows a 1989 date of manufacture and the GOST manufacturing standard code adopted in 1981.

The flag is in outstanding excellent condition, showing only storage age. There are no tears, holes, snags, or stains of any kind. The colors are strong.

This historic flag can be a great addition to a collection of Cold War history buff or naval enthusiast. Its size makes it easy to display where wall space is limited but still big enough to make a great impression. Unlike the Soviet naval flags made of wool fabric (bunting) that have prevalent moth, one will never have to worry about moth problem with this flag!
