Slender very tall "Single Stem" vase in cut glass, circa 1950s-70s.

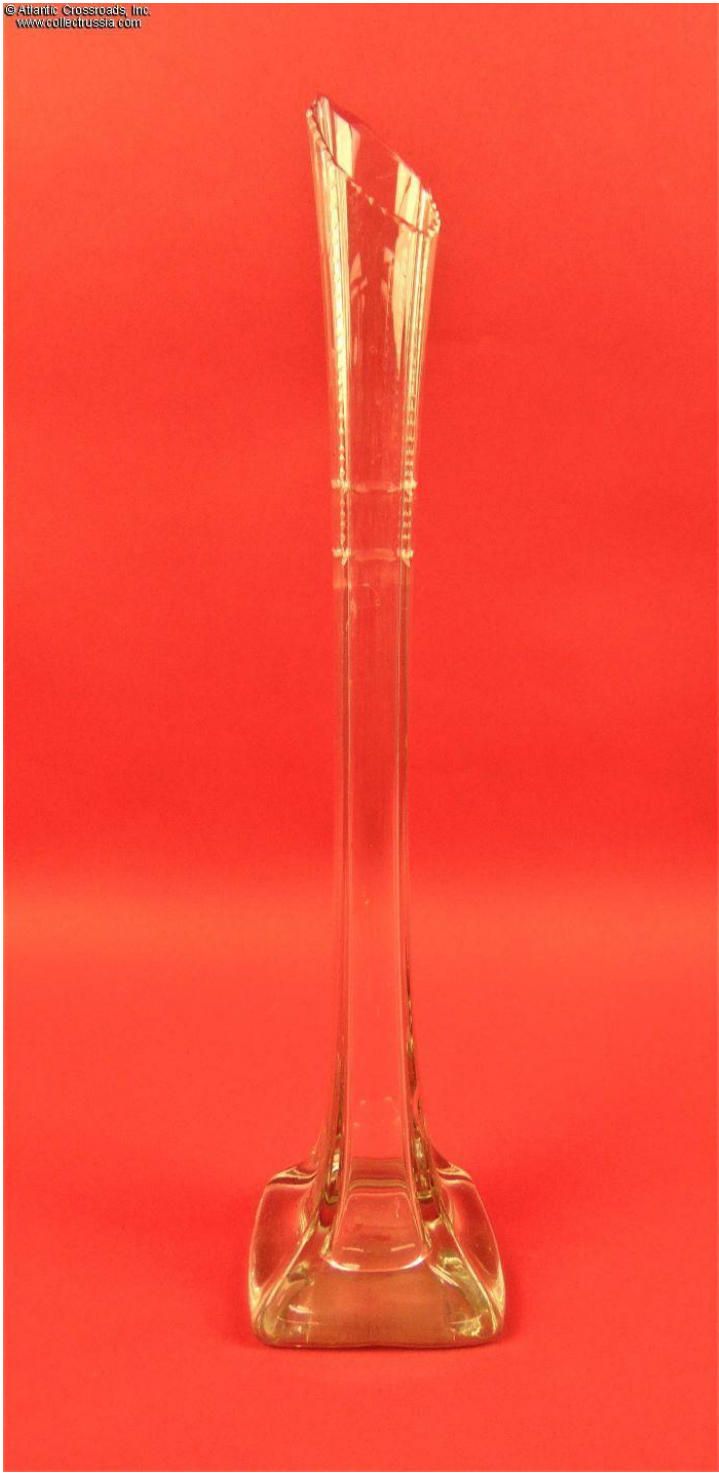

Stands almost 16" tall, 1 ½" wide at the rim, square base about 3 ½" across. Hand-blown, cut at at the top 1/3 of height and on the rim.

In good condition. The vase has been in use and acquired traces of being filled with water and a few very minor hairline scratches and also suffered 2 chips at the opposing ribs near the base. While unfortunate, the chips are opposite each other and may even be seen as part of the cut glass design. In any case, nearly all the imperfections disappear visually when the vase is filled with water.
