

Small-sized dish for condiments circa 1950s-60s, in copper sulfate glass, set in Melchior filigree.

The dish is approx. 3 ½" wide, a ¼" more with the Melchior setting. Stands 2 ¼" tall together with the setting. In "кунпоросное стекло" (Russian for "copper sulfate glass").

In very fine to excellent condition. The metal is amazingly clear of tarnish. The glass shows just two minuscule chips at the rim but no scuffing, scratches or nicks.

Overall, a charming tasteful item that can be used for many purposes, from condiments to jewelry or brick-a-brac, or simply adorn a shelf in your living room or kitchen.

Please note that the teaspoon is in our photo for size reference only.
