

Large porcelain serving dish "Grapes", by Dulevo Porcelain Factory, dated 1956.

Size 10 3/4" wide, stands 1 3/4" tall. The centerpiece is a floral arrangement dominated by a tulip, suggesting spring season. The centerpiece is surrounded by a grapevine-themed ornament, 6 iterations of which run around the circumference of the dish. The bottom features the maker's mark (fig. # 244 in Volume One of Marks on Soviet Porcelain, Faience, and Majolica, 1917-1991 by Nasonova et al). The QC-assigned 3rd quality level and the year of manufacture, 1956, is under the logo.

In excellent condition. The dish has been in use but weathered it very well. Some of the gilt has rubbed off but there are no visible cracks, scratches or scuffs anywhere on the surface.

Overall, a fine period piece with a lot of "presence" and beauty.

Please note that the teaspoon is in our photo for size reference only.
