

Group Photo of Six Artillery Majors Wearing Medal Ribbon Bars, circa early 1950s.

Measures 6 1/4" x 4 1/4", printed on textured cardboard matte photo paper. All the officers in the group appear to be WW2 veterans, judging by the medal ribbon bars they are wearing. Four of the majors are in service uniforms, two in the first row are in full dress uniforms, and wearing diamond-shaped badges, most likely graduation badges of a military academy.

In excellent condition, showing just minuscule corner bumps, and a slight crease to the upper right-hand corner, not easily noticeable. The verso has a number written in lead pencil, otherwise is clean.

Please note that the penny in our photo is for size reference.
